ACADEMICS

Thinking, learning, studying, forgetting and the satisfaction of understanding are all integral parts of the process we know as education.

But what exactly is education to the people that are so much a part of Wiley . . . the faculty, the students, the graduates? Education is the transmission of the knowledge of yesterday, to the scholars of today, who will expand that wisdom and apply it for tomorrow.

Not only does education allow us to help ourselves to a better tomorrow, but it also allows us to teach others as we ourselves have been taught . . . the type of academic skills which leave much room open for individual expression and expansion. Proof of the success of our academic system is reflected in successes of those who have come before us. Just as their successes have inspired us, so will ours to those who will follow us.

What we learn now, whether it is an alegbraic formula, or the theme of an ancient classic, it is necessary to us. For the knowledge we receive here is our sole foundation on our outcome for tomorrow.

Proffitt Speaks to Wiley

When I look over the years I have spent at Wiley as coach, patron, dean and now principal, I find myself deeply attached to the building, the faculty, the students —all that is Wiley.

As a most loyal friend of Wiley's, I recognize all that our school stands for in the sharp focus that familiarity affords me. Though this building is old, it is set upon a firm foundation. To me, this parallels Wiley's cause. To establish solidity of purpose and prepare every graduate for making the most of his opportunities is Wiley's reason for existing.

I speak for the faculty when I hope that each graduate in '70 and in the future, will leave Wiley a richer person mentally and spiritually, a more valuable person to modern society, and a far more important human to his fellow man.

Seconds in Command

The friendly smiles of Wiley's deans and assistant principal greeted an endless line of guidance-seeking Wileyans. Always ready to listen to a student's problems and give understanding assistance, they were invaluable to Wiley.

Mr. Halt carried out his duties as assistant principal with his usual efficiency while Mr. Schroeder and Mrs. Ahrens smoothly maneuvered their ways through another memorable year.

Versatile Instruction Administered By School Counselors

A distinct part of Wiley's faculty was involved in counseling students along with their academic duties. Some of these counselors were Miss Chalos and Mr. Evrard for the sophomores, Mrs. Adamson and Mr. Halt for the juniors, and Mrs. Ahrens and Mr. Schroeder for the seniors. Miss Chalos was the counselor for college bound students and Mrs. Adamson for students interested in High School Institutes.

Counselors had varied duties including fixing schedules, giving advice on what classes to take and helping them choose a career or a good college to prepare for the future.

Reflections Of Efficiency In Wiley's Offices

The efficient running of Wiley depends chiefly upon the dedicated office workers and counselors. The counselors helped students in choosing subjects, making college plans, and changing programs while the secretaries made up the "hidden administration" in the various offices. Students also aided the faculty by performing routine office tasks.

Left: The office workers played an important part in our school. Mrs. Stoops worked in Mr. Halt's office. She is assigned such interesting tasks as copying test score on cum cards. Below: Office workers such as Bitzegaio took messages, answered phones and ran errands.

As the hand grasps the book so language grasps the ideas of the world. Language study was an integral part of our English program.

Looking toward the day when English will become the universal language, the English Department of Wiley paved the road to success with bricks of fluent communication. Students were encouraged to express themselves with one of man's greatest gifts, that of speech, and were seasoned with the thoughts and works of their forefathers, both American and foreign.

The material covered by this very important department ranged from the teachings of Socrates, Aristotle and Plato to the Theatre of the Absurd and Shakespeare's sonnets, all of which was presented in a most interesting fashion.

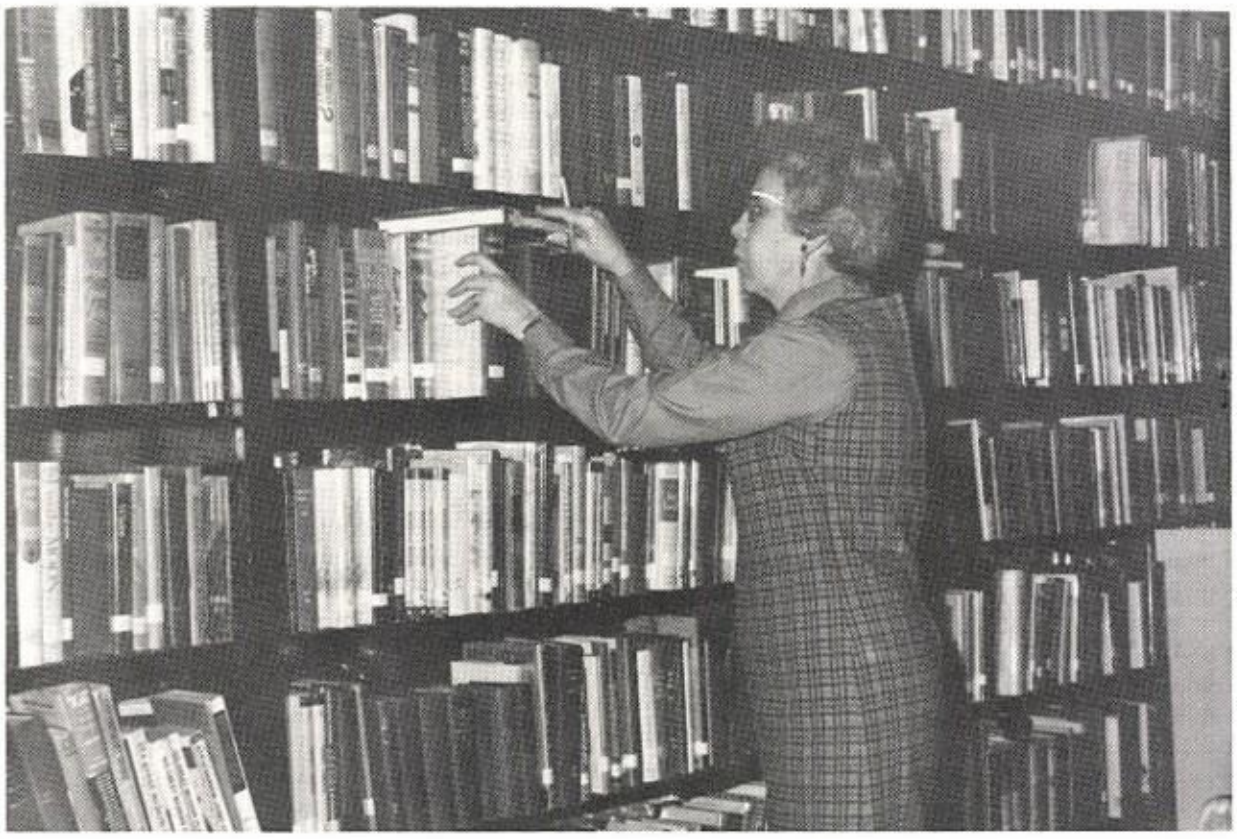
READING—WRITING—SPEECH



Mrs. Hardesty, with the help of her workers, keep our library clean and organized.

"In books I find the dead as if they were alive. In books I foresee things to come. In books warlike affairs are set forth the laws of peace. All things are corrupted and decay in time. All the glory of the world would be buried in oblivion unless God provided mortals with the remedy of books."

Richard de Bary

To the Speech, journalism and library departments books and informative materials are the groundwork of an intricately woven framework on which the minds of today's youth is stretched. In all three areas the promotion of expression and thought is the goal of the individual and instructor.

From the Past We Become

Ready for the Future

Numbers Bend the Mind

This year Wiley's mathematicians have had a wide array of classes from which to choose in the field of mathematics. Some of the many courses that were offered were trigonometry, geometry, algebra, calculus, and advanced mathematics.

These classes have helped strengthen and build the minds of Wiley students and to better prepare them for the outside world of today where mathematics is so important.

Mr. Hardesty worked hard to teach his math students the needed material.

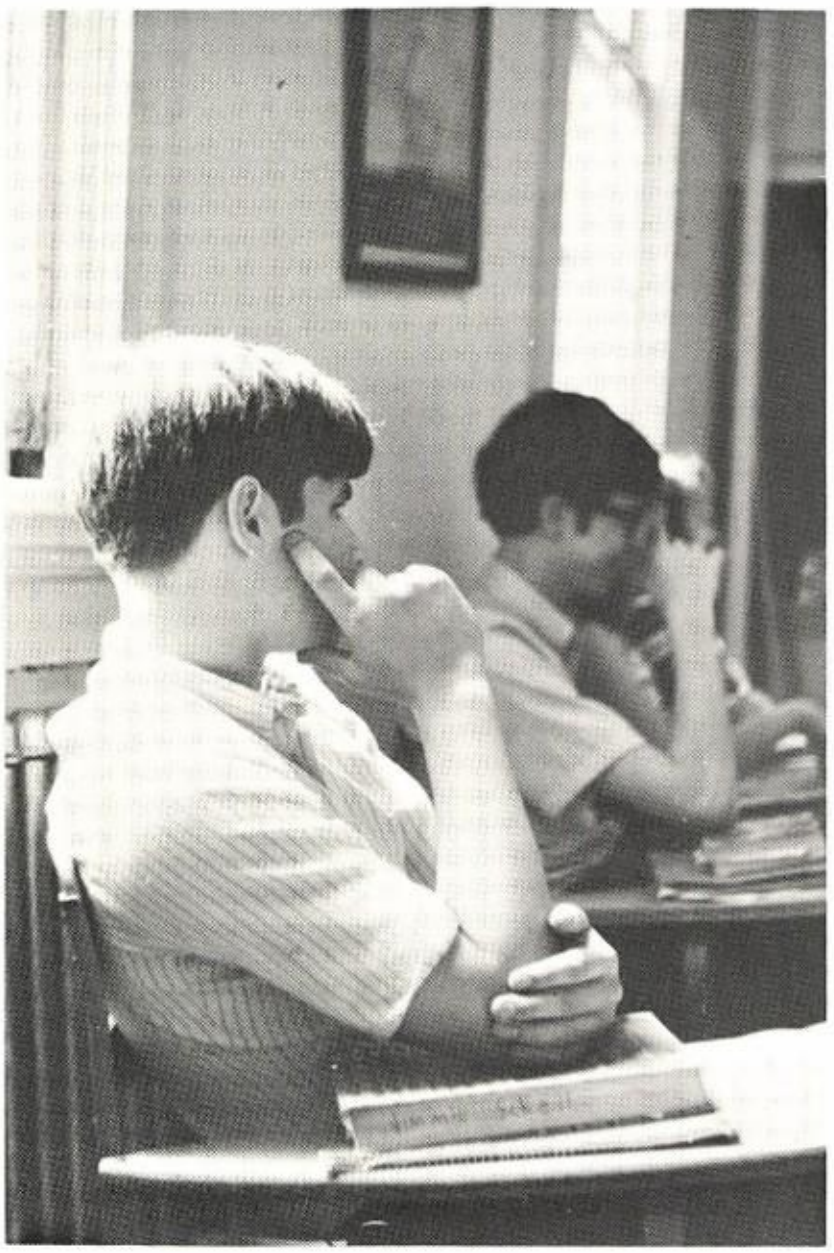
Since Algebra wasn't just memorizing tables, Jimmie Schill found that listening every day was important.



Rick Tarrant found that a compass, a protractor, a ruler and a math book had to be carried around for a long time.

Our deeply involved science faculty consisted of, Mr. Purcell, Mr. Payne, Mr. Evrard, Mr. Oxford, and Mr. Johnson, the head of the department.

Science—with It We Can Improve the World!

The science field of our world is expanding at an astounding rate, therefore the importance of doing well in our science course is greater. Science not only prepared us well for the future it had many practical purposes for the present as well.

There were a variety of classes possible to take; Physiology, Chemistry, Physics, Botany, Zoology, Physical Science and Electronics. Many students explored the depths of this subject from the intricacies of an electric engine to the miracle of the human body.

Upper left: The mechanics of wave motion was proven in an experiment by Physics II class. Did you know the difference between the wave length of distinct tuning forks? Bill Malloy, Mike Wolfe and Toni Murer found out. Upper right: Betsy Ault and Jim Walker watched brilliant Bob Jerry perform a chemistry experiment. Left: Bill Merrill measured Pam Hoggatt's blood pressure.

With the aid of our foreign language department, Wiley students learned many essentials to help them gain a greater knowledge with foreign language skills. The instructors included: Mr. Staymaker, Mrs. Chalos, Mr. Whitesell, Mrs. Riddle.

Language Promotes

Outside speakers were also featured. This demonstration to a French class helped the students gain an understanding on one topic.

The language department this year has provided an opportunity for students to become acquainted with foreign lands. They have learned to speak and write a second language, as well as become familiar with other countries' customs, cultures, and history.

Languages offered this year included French, German, Latin and Spanish. Mrs. Riddle taught Spanish, Mr. Slaymaker, German, Miss Johnson, Latin, and Mr. Whitesell, and Miss Chalos, French. These patient, helpful teachers aided students in becoming fluent in their respective languages. Thanks to these teachers, students learn language skills they will need in later life. They may take up to three years of each language, except Latin, which offers four. French and Spanish also offer four, if the demand is great. Otherwise, those wishing a fourth year of French or Spanish take classes at ISU.

Understanding

La Comida Española was enjoyed by many members of the Spanish classes. Jim Jeffers and Bob Dodson served as talented waiters as they performed their duties for the class members. This learning through doing is vital to an understanding of a foreign language.

How to Succeed

Business math is a very difficult subject requiring the intense concentration of all who accepted the challenge of the class.

in Business

Miss Hass' Clerical Practice class went on a field trip to one of the local banks. The tour included an explanation of the microfilming process.

Wiley's valuable business department helped students learn the skills and techniques they will need in the future. Using our limited space to it's fullest, they were taught courses in general business, bookkeeping, shorthand, business law, business math, and Distributive Education. Between the capable machines and teachers, these students are sure to be successful in their careers. The expert, talented instructors and their eager willingness to learn triumphed over the cramped quarters of the Annex and the two portable classrooms. 30 and 31.

The industrial arts program allowed the students to learn a trade while still attending school. Drafting skills and craftmanship are only two of the many important opportunities this program provides. The students are taught to handle all their tools with care and accuracy, to create a product as close to perfection as possible. These skills are essential to many crafts and the Industrial arts program taught them well.

Mr. Harris and Mr. Cochran provided the knowledge to make the success of the Industrial Arts program.

Artists Do Their Own Thing

Wiley artists were guided by Mrs. Sampson and Mrs. Shuck.

The word art covers a lot of territory and so did the art classes this year. Some of the many projects were: painting, silk screening, and wax sculptures. Art classes made several trips to the Swope Art Gallery to view local artists work. The annual lawn art show was a great success as the artists displayed their numerous works.

The teaching of home economics at Wiley was capably taught by our three extrememly competent teachers, Mrs. Jane Dick, Mrs. Eugenia Shepard and Mrs. Mary Watson. In the home economics courses offered at Wiley, many girls become prepared in the skills of cooking and sewing. The experience received in Wiley's home economics classes has helped and will help many girls successfully enter and enjoy the world of homemaking.

Students Gained New Knowledge and Ideas in Various Domestic Skills

Go You Chicken Fat, Go!

Wiley's Physical Education Program scored a number of notable successes this school year. Not only were the gym teachers concerned with the building of our physical bodies but took it upon themselves to build our moral character as well.

They played in pep sessions and entertained us at school convocation. The dance band played at the coronations and in the Revue. The orchestra performed in several contests and school convocations. Mr. Whitaker's main aim is to help his students become good music listeners not just performers. The musicians held their Spring Awards Banquet on May 15 at Woodrow Wilson. Senior Band Keys and 2 year letters were presented at this banquet. The members of these bands spent many hours practicing, playing and performing.

The choir, led by Mrs. Stich, has performed at several special activities. They performed at the coronation ceremonies, the Christmas Assembly, and sang in the Revue. They had a caroling party, a spring picnic, and journeyed to Indianapolis to the Choral Festival. Mrs. Stich's main goals are vocal training of anyone interested and special training for advanced students. The choir is not the only singing group at Wiley. We also have the Madri-Gals and Guys and the Girls Trio.

Each year, the two top students of the graduating class are chosen as valedictorian and salutatorian. This year Ray Kepner, who had the highest grade average of the senior class, was honored with the title of valedictorian. Robin Hess, possessor of the second-highest scholastic record, was chosen as the salutatorian. No two students could deserve such rewards for their talent, leadership, and diligence more than Ray and Robin. Young people such as these make the future of our country and the whole world look bright. The yearbook joins the rest of the students and faculty in congratulating Ray and Robin.

NATIONAL MERIT WINNERS

Several Wiley students taking the National Merit Tests received Letters of Commendation. They are: R. Hess, C. Dierdorf, M. Dodson, B. Ault, J. Baker. ROW TWO: R. Jones, R. King, J. Withrow, R. Kepner, and B. Jerry. Wiley is very proud of these students for their achievement.

The National Merit Test is given every year in the spring. The tests take several hours and are given in the subject of general knowledge. Many seniors took the tests when they were juniors. Wiley received many honors this year. Two girls were named semi-finalists and ten students were given Letters of Commendation. Last year two Wiley students were semi-finalists and eight got Letters of Commendation. This only proves that every year more students are showing their academic achievement. The semi-finalists are considered when national winners are chosen. The national winners received scholarships to the college of their choice. These people have reached the highest academic achievement at Wiley and some took classes at Indiana State University.

The Honor Society consisted of: ROW ONE: M. Mardis, J. Eachus, J. Walker, R. Jones. ROW TWO: P. Neer, J. Paige, J. Girton, R. Hess, M. Herbst, C. Diedorf. ROW THREE: J. Tarrah, J. Baker, N. The National Honor Society is elected each year by the faculty. It has a total of fifty-one members this year. The National Honor Society is sponsored by Mrs. Ahrens.

The senior class elects three senior girls to run for the school's Good Citizen. The School's Good Citizen is elected from these three girls. She fills out an examination sheet on American History civics on local, state, and national level and knowledge of current events. Christy Dierdorf was elected as Wiley's Good Citizen. She is also Vigo County's Good Citizen.

ACTIVITIES

In addition to learning and studying, a Wiley student took time out of his busy schedule, in order to attend such activities as, basketball games, Homecoming events and the Wiley Revue.

We, at Wiley High School should be very proud of ourselves for the fine school spirit we've shown this past year. The encouragement and enthusiasm of the students helped lead the way for the success of the in-season year, the victorious Sectional games, and last but not least, the defeat at the Regional. Although we lost the Regional, we, at Wiley High, are confident that we will try harder in the coming school year.

The Wiley Revue was wonderful. The talent portrayed on May 1, and May 2, was quite unbelievable. The participants were all commended for having provided such an enjoyable evening of entertainment.

These were among the many activities at Wiley.

ORGANIZATIONS

Our associations with other people, setting a goal, working towards it, fulfilling the responsibilities that go along with achievement, meetings, assemblies, programs . . . just being involved. All these things revolve around organizations.

When we participate in the various activities of the organizations to which we belong, we are not only expanding our knowledge and experiences, but we are also becoming an important part of our school.

As we look back, we are awed that the old school is still standing. Within its tradition laden walls, a very big part of us remains. The friends we made, the enemies, the teachers, the bonfires, the coronations, the banquets, the debates, the games . . . are all corollaries to our interactions with other people. Our organizations, sub-cultures in themselves, have helped us to expand, to grow.

Our organizations are our link to the world, it links us to those who were involved yesterday, as we will be linked to those of our tomorrow.

They try to bring about a more progressive and tolerant school policy and if there should be any problems in school they attempted to discuss them and bring these to the knowledge of the administration.

They were assigned several important tasks; in the fall they bought oil for the floors, they were in charge of the basketball and football coronations, putting up the Christmas tree, the Wiley Revue in the spring and the Honor Assemblies at the end of the year.

The football and basketball sportsmanship trophy was also presented by our student council.

STREAKS

SPORTS

Succeeding and losing, triumph and the agony of loss, a welcome victory, or a heartbreaking defeat, were all tense moments. We were all moved, with the excitement—participants and observers alike.

The competition was great, sometimes far more superior that we. We learned from our mistakes. We learned that winning takes a combined effort of everyone involved—the players, the coaches, and the fans. We learned that sometimes we wouldn't have enough effort, and we would lose.

The spirit and excitement at the kicking, throwing, running and yelling was enough to show others that we were proud at being a part of Wiley High School—a very significant part.

During the athletic seasons much was done around Wiley to boost spirit and morale. Our band, Streaks and cheerleaders helped to give the school an excited atmosphere—only surpassed by the student body at assemblies. We learned our teams would be triumphant only with a loyal crowd behind them. Yes we learned . . . learned in our yesterdays, that will be our inevitable tomorrows.

Wiley's Cheerleaders Boost the Red Streaks

Sponsored by Mrs. Krug, the Varsity cheerleaders practiced every Tuesday after school. The B-Team cheerleaders practiced often also. Unfortunately they did not get to go to camp last summer but doubtlessly they were as good as in past years.

Homecoming Victory for Red Streaks

Sideline members also aided in giving support to our boys.

Coaching and Prodding the football team through the 1969 season were coaches Spence, Touchton, McCammon and Youman. The boys made up the inner core of the team but without combined efforts, constant encourgement and guidance of the coaches and managers the team would not have been as powerful.

Fans Cheered Sectional Champs on to Bloomington

Wiley basketball team had a tremendous season record. Out of twenty four games we won twenty and only lost four. Our team captured the Sectional title by beating State High, Gerstmeyer and Garfield. Unfortunately, Bloomington slipped by us by two points in overtime. This record was certainly indicative of the caliber of the 1969-1970 team.

Bryce Vilchuck made an amazing leap up and over. This feat was quite an achievement, and it helped Wiley win the track sectionals.

Although, our court isn't as modern as many others, it wasn't a determent to the improving of their excellent skills, which proved a great aid to the season's record. Their word?? It's still "love".

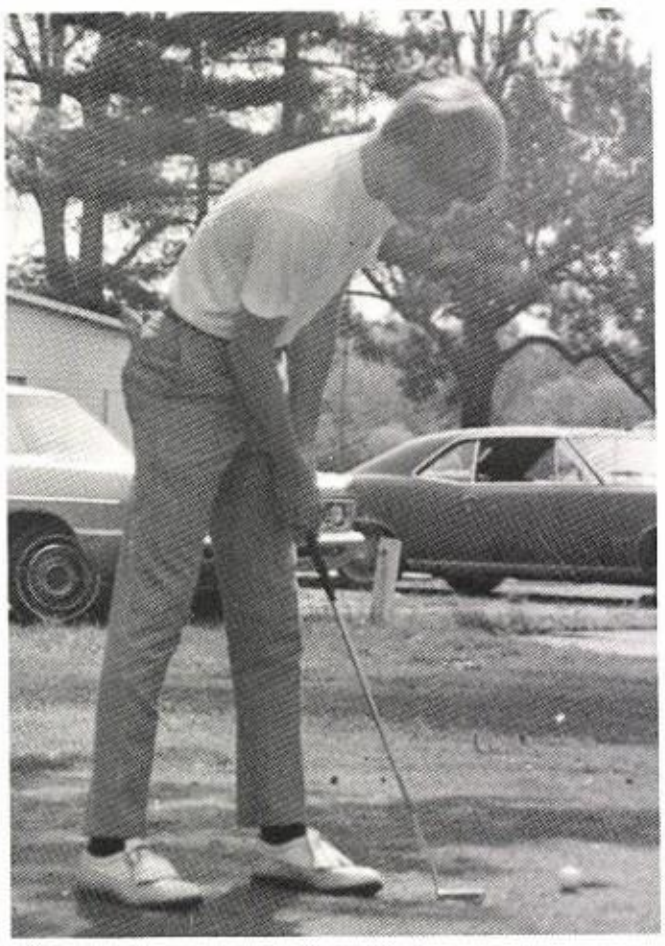
Golf Team Tees Off To Successful Season

Members of the golf team are: S. Persinger, M. Wolf, B. Olah, B. Merrill, C. Adamson, T. Cain, G. Aleshire, M. Young, and Mr. Hardesty.

The golf team has had much success under the leadership of Mr. Hardesty. They spent many hours practicing the many different aspects of golfing. They won many games and brought back many titles. Many meets were played with county schools and out of town. Golf is becoming more popular all the time.



Golfers Mike Young and Steve Persinger show us that every individual person has a special technique in putting.

M. Miller tries to make his shot good while S. Persinger and M. Wolf start to move on to the next hole. Student golfers caddy their own clubs.

M. Wolf concentrates, trying to knock the ball as close to the hole as possible.

M. Wolf and M. Young caddy their own clubs.

Hey Baby! Hit a Homer

Baseball hasn't been the most popular sport in high school, but the fine team Wiley presented brought the fans to the field. Among the various fields used were those at Glenn, the Babe Ruth Park, and Spencer field.

A bat and ball wasn't the only thing that they needed practice at, since training was their reason for jogging all around town. The hard training, the good coaching, and the boys themselves were the main reason for the excellent team we had.

PERSONALITIES

The names and faces of the people we knew and those we didn't, will be permanently recorded here. So many common experiences will be reflected upon—our interaction with other people.

The memories we have acquired towards the administration as well as our peers, will be brought forth once again to remind us of the emotions we experienced together. These emotions will live forever in our memories, along with the sad realization that we are leaving a part of ourselves behind with them.

Whether it was alone or within a group, these personalities made this year unforgettable and rewarding. It is these people who will use the knowledge and experience they have gained to help others learn—to make the world grow, progress, go forward.

Whether it was a best friend or a mere familiar face, all these people are a part of our yesterday. As we reflect upon today, our memories, it is a great consolation to us that a part of our yesterday will expand into our tomorrow.

SENIOR CLASS GOVERNMENT

The members of the senior executive committee worked hard for a successful year since it was their last at Wiley. Because of their concisive planning, the seniors have at least one week. They are sure to remember. Besides the activities of senior week this committee planned the senior banquet, senior prom, graduation ceremonies, and the presentation of honor day which was held in the Wiley gym.

So Live, that when thy summons comes to join
The innumerable caravan, which moves
To that mysterious realm where each shall take
His chamber in the silent halls of death,
Thou go not, like the quarry slave at night,
Scourged to his dungeon, but, sustained and soothed
By an unfaltering trust, approach thy grave,
Like one who wraps the drapery of his couch
About him, and lies down to pleasant dreams.

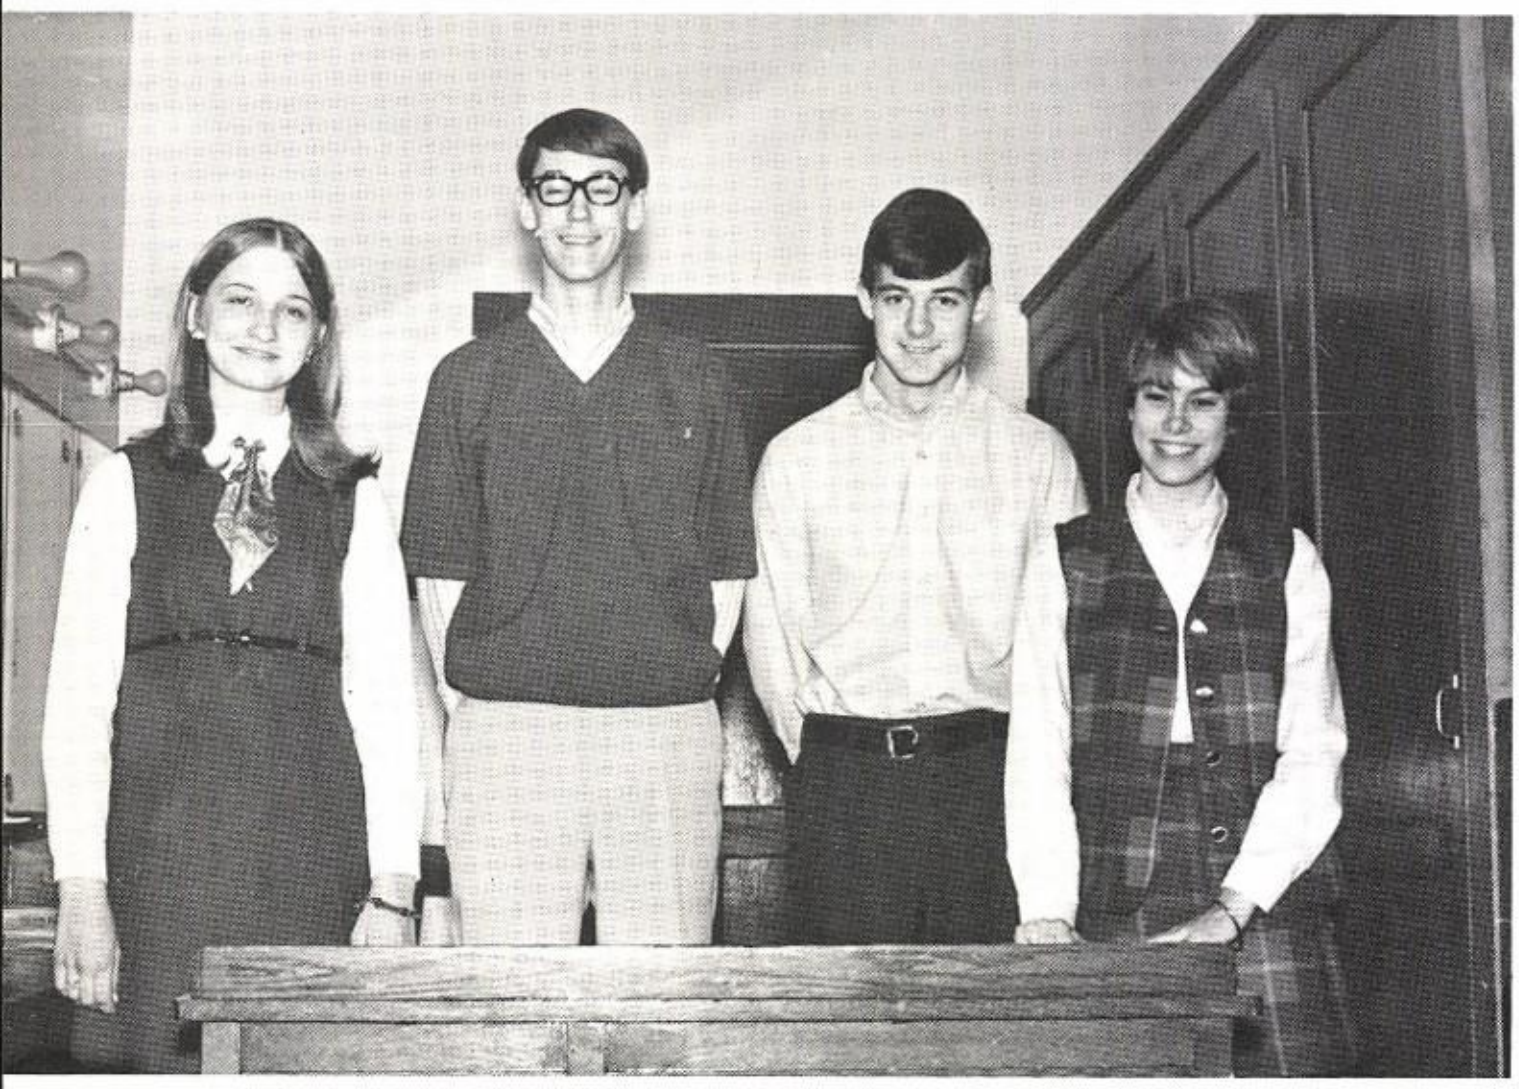
THE CLASS OF 1971



The Junior Class was efficiently run by Treasurer Lynn Hoelscher, Vice President Chuck Adamson, President John Bailey, and Secretary Janet Boyle.

This year, the class of nineteen-seventy-one elected its officers and the Executive Committee, who worked hard to make the junior class's activities a great success. These sixteen students, along with the sponsor, Mr. Joe Marcinko, helped to plan and carry out the Junior Prom, "A Time For Us," which was enjoyed by many juniors and their dates. Every year Wiley's junior class shows much promise, and 1969-70's was no exception, expecially when led by such able officers and talented executives. Mr. Marcinko, who was also the speech and debate coach, donated much valuable time to the class of 'seventy-one.

K. Ross studied Wiley's great athletic heritage in the main hall, as many others did during the passing periods.

Two students, M. Clemmons and D. Lyle, were a good example of why our downtown restaurant owners enjoyed receiving our patronage.

ADVERTISING

A yearbook is immortal. The life and spirit it represents will be enjoyed again and a g a i n throughout the years. Much time, effort and money goes into its making. Most schools depend on some type of advertising to finance the yearbook. Other than the financial aid it represents, what actually are the merits of advertising?

Much attention should be directed towards the student body. Because much money passes through their hands, they are a very important market to the merchants. The yearbook is one of the few ways in which this market can be reached.

There is a great misunderstanding about yearbook advertising. Some say the merchant who places his advertisement in the yearbook is giving a mere charitable donation. If one would stop and consider the large number of yearbooks which are printed, he would see that this isn't true. The merchant will receive multiple benefits for many years—as his ad will be read and re-read by his present customers as well as those who are to come.

These acts that help to support us, will tomorrow be our yesterday, but the appreciation derived from them will not be forgotten.
